

Margulies Perruzzi Architects Welcomes Two Architectural Designers

BOSTON, Mass. – December 14, 2011 – Margulies Perruzzi Architects, one of Boston's most innovative architectural and interior design firms, is proud to announce that Jessica L. Dubois and Caitlin D. Greenwood have joined the firm as architectural designers. In their new roles, Dubois and Greenwood will be responsible for drawing and document production throughout all design phases. They will also provide support during the construction observation phase. Dubois is currently working on a new office building for Hobbs Brook Management in Norwood, Massachusetts. Greenwood is working on construction documentation for the new Boston Tea Party Ships & Museum in the Fort Point Channel neighborhood of Boston.

"We are pleased to welcome Jessica and Caitlin to our design staff," said Marc Margulies, AIA, LEED AP, principal at Margulies Perruzzi Architects. "Jessica and Caitlin add their respective talents and strengths to our dedicated design team, and they understand the importance of creating design that supports our clients' business objectives."

Jessica L. Dubois joins MPA after graduating from Wentworth Institute of Technology with a Master of Architecture and a Bachelor of Science in Architecture. While at Wentworth, Jessica was a teaching assistant for architecture design studios and served as a critic for numerous architecture studio reviews. She also spent a summer at the B.A.S.E. Beijing Architecture Studio Enterprise where she observed and documented Chinese construction methods in active sites. Her professional experience includes internships at the Boston Architectural Center and the Boston College Capital Projects Management office. She is also a member of the American Institute of Architects Students.

Caitlin D. Greenwood received a Master of Architecture, with a minor in Art and Architectural History, from Roger Williams University in Bristol, Rhode Island. Her educational experience includes a semester studying abroad at The Institute at Palazzo Rucellai in Florence, Italy, as well as the completion of a thesis project entitled Public Space, Public Architecture: The Embarcadero Center for the Arts. Caitlin's professional experience includes two architectural internships while in Italy and an architectural internship with Peterson Design Group in Kennebunk, Maine. She also served as a teaching assistant in design studio and architecture lecture at Roger Williams University. Caitlin is a member and former secretary of the American Institute of Architects Students.
