Margulies Wins Architectural Woodworking Award

Boston, MA - Margulies & Associates, an architectural and interior design firm, announced that its office design for a Boston-based asset management firm has won an Award of Excellence from the Architectural Woodwork Institute (AWI).

AWI's widely-respected Award of Margulies' design complements the client's working style.

The office suite reflects classic continental and American Aesthetics.

Excellence Program distinguishes the finest custom architectural woodwork projects and acknowledges the efforts of the architects, design professionals, and woodwork manufacturers responsible for those projects.

"The AWI editorial selection panel focuses on the beauty and value of using wood in architectural designs. The project submitted by Margulies & Associates and Trickett Woodworks is a fine example of beautiful architectural woodwork," said Philip Duvic, of the AWI Award of Excellence Program.

With a focus on investing in European companies, the client's primary goal was to create a classic, impressive space that complements its working style and environment. In response, Margulies & Associates designed an elegant 8,400 sf office suite that reflects classic continental and American aesthetics.
