gineering Excellence Awards (EEA) sponsored by the American Council of Engineering Companies of Mass. (ACEC/MA).

As a current member of the board of directors at the Boston Society of Architects (BSA), Perruzzi will represent the BSA and the Boston architectural society as a whole along with the other judges in evaluating EEA submissions and selecting the winners.

"I'm honored to serve as the architectural judge for the Engineering Excellence Awards," said Perruzzi. "Engineering and architecture go hand-in-hand, and sharing new ideas and practices allows us to continually improve our professional practices."

The ACEC Engineering Excellence Awards (EEA) competition recognizes engineering achievements that demonstrate the highest degree of merit and ingenuity. The voice of America's engineering industry, ACEC members are engaged in a wide range of engineering works that propel the nation's economy, and enhance and safeguard America's quality of life.

"The American Council of Engineering Companies of Mass. is pleased to work in partnership with the BSA on issues and challenges facing designers and many other issues of common concern," said ACEC/MA executive director Abbie Goodman. "We are grateful to the BSA for their ongoing commitment to excellence and for their annual participation in such events as our
