

Margulies & Associates Promotes Smith to Associate, Congratulates D'Amico on Architectural Registration

BOSTON, Mass. – April 17, 2008 – Margulies & Associates, one of Boston's most innovative architectural and interior design firms, announced today the promotion of Kimberly Smith to the position of Associate within the firm, and congratulates Derek D'Amico on earning his architectural registration and membership in the American Institute of Architects (AIA).

"The quality of an architecture firm is defined by the talents of its people, and we are extremely fortunate to have Kim and Derek on our team. Kim is a talented architect who has proven time and time again that she understands the importance of creating design that supports our clients' business objectives," said Marc Margulies, AIA, principal of Margulies & Associates. "Derek is a skilled manager of complex project details, ensuring that design and construction run smoothly and that our high quality standards are maintained from the beginning of design through occupancy."

Kimberly Smith, AIA ~ Promoted to Associate

An architect and designer with more than 19 years of experience, Kim has worked on a range of project types including laboratory and research facilities, corporate headquarters, hospitals, classrooms and training centers. Since joining Margulies & Associates in 2005, she has served as the project architect/designer for OneBeacon Insurance, Ken's Foods, K Capital, Covidien, and Partners Real Estate and Planning Office. Kim is currently working on the 175 Wyman Street project for Hobbs Brooks Management LLC, a 335,000 square foot office building campus in Waltham, Mass., designed to meet LEED Silver requirements.

Kim holds a Bachelor of Architecture degree from the University of Texas at Austin and a Master of Architecture degree from Harvard University. She is a member of the American Institute of Architects (AIA), the United States Green Building Council's (USGBC) Massachusetts Membership Forum, and Alpha Phi Omega, the service fraternity.

Derek D'Amico, AIA, Associate

As an Associate at Margulies, Derek has more than 13 years of experience providing design services for all phases of a project from schematic design to construction administration. Responsible for daily interaction with clients and daily supervision of the project design progress, he is currently helping to manage the interior architectural design for a new 505,000 square foot office tower for a financial services company in Boston, comprising 23 floors with new connecting stairs to trading floors and a conference center. Since joining Margulies in 1997, Derek's other projects have included work for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts, BankBoston International, ManuLife, Bell Atlantic (now Verizon Communications), and Candlewood Suites Hotels.

Derek received his Bachelor of Science degree in Architecture from Wentworth Institute of Technology and is also a member of the Boston Society of Architects (BSA) and the American Institute of Architects (AIA).
